14 Killed On Maine Roads Last Month

October, with fourteen highway deaths, brought the motor vehicle fatality total to 122 for the first ten months of 1951. This number equals last year's total for the same period of time.

With four killed, Kennebec had the dubious distinction of leading the counties, York County was close behind with three.

Included in October's toll were four drivers, five passengers, three pedestrians and two bicycle riders. Eleven people were killed in rural sections, three in urban areas.

Four of October's fatalities were under 10 years of age.

Pedestrian in the road, bicycle riders, reckless driving and excessive speed all contributed to the total.

Thirty-four pedestrians were killed in the first 10 months of 1951, as compared with 38 for the same period in 1950. Six of the pedestrians who met death in 1951 were under seven years of age; 13 were over 60.

Now, what can we expect in November? From 1944 through 1950, November claimed the lives of 121 in Maine motor vehicle accidents. Sixty-three of these, well over 50%, were pedestrians.

Looking at the picture of the past three years, we find that seven pedestrians were killed in November 1950, 5 in November 1949, and 6 in November 1948. Of this three-year total of 18, 11 were over 60 years old and three were under five years.

This is the story for the past three years. If we follow the same pattern in 1951, 15 people will be killed on our highways. Six of these will be pedestrians, four of them elderly, one very young.

The conclusion is obvious. November is a deadly month for pedestrians. Added hours of darkness, the difficulty of sudden stops by motorists on wet or frozen highways, the tendency of the worker to bow his head to the icy blasts, all add up to a situation of extreme danger.

What can we do about it? Only a mutual sense of responsibility on the part of the driver and the pedestrian will prevent these unnecessary accidents. Lt. John deWinter, Director, Division of Traffic and Safety, Maine State Police.

"Tuberculosis is the major public health disease problem and, being communicable, the public should not permit efforts to eliminate it to be relaxed. If the program to control it is weakened, the disease could rapidly increase and the gains achieved in the past would be lost," he said.

Bullet Misses Local Hunter

While Donald Walker was hunting on Sparrowhawk Mountain Saturday afternoon, a bullet passed through the visor of his cap, knocking it from his head. The bullet hole was within half an inch of his forehead. He threw himself to the ground and shouted but no one came or made themselves known.

He wore a black and red cap and similarly colored coat and was standing in an opening when the shot was fired. There seems to be no excuse for such carelessness and it is hoped that this may be a lesson to the careless hunter.

PLAYERS TO SPONSOR "JACK-AND-THE-BEANSTALK" AT GYMNASIUM, NOV. 17

The Bethel Players will present The Children's Theatre of Portland in a production of "Jack-and-the-Beanstalk" on Saturday Nov. 17 at 10:30 at William Bingham Gymnasium.

The same group presented "Rumpelstiltskin" last spring to the delight of many adults as well as youngsters.

Last year a total of 49 performances were seen by approximately 26,000 children in Maine.

Their aim is to set a high standard of entertainment for children and to open the door to good literature and new interests and hobbies.

The local teachers are cooperating by reading the story to the children beforehand, so they will be able to follow the play as they see it presented from the stage.

"Mush," as usual, will see that his busses are available to bring out of town children in on that morning.

Arrangements are being made so every child in this area may have the opportunity of seeing "Jack-and-the-Beanstalk," at a very nominal admission.

The Bethel Players are to be commended for bringing to our town this high type of entertainment for its youngsters. It represents cooperation on the part of many to make this project the success it usually is.

GOULD ACADEMY

The annual Sadie Hawkins Dance, sponsored by the Youth Fellowship of the Congregational Church, was held on Saturday, November 3, at the William Bingham Gym. The theme for this party was "Adapted from the Gay Nineties and everyone was attired accordingly."

Specialties included a barbershop quartet consisting of Bob Patterson, Brad Chayne Dick Emery, and Erwin Bacon, a cheery rendition of "Bicycle Built for Two" by Brad Chayne and Janice Lord, and a general sing conducted by Mr. Barbour and accompanied by Mr. Thompson.

Prizes for the best costumes were awarded to Marjorie Murray and Barry York.

Clyde Russell, Executive Secretary of the Maine Teachers Association, addressed the student body on the subject of "What Is Education?" at assembly on Wednesday morning. Mr. Russell gave his definition of education as "a process of learning whereby one becomes adept at determining whom and what to believe." He emphasized that discrimination in formulating one's opinions is important in an age of radio, newspaper and television.

Mr. Russell further stated that this can be accomplished in some measure by reading good books and by analyzing what one hears and sees before forming opinions.

The football game on Saturday at 2 p. m. with Fryeburg will be played at Fryeburg. This game closes the football season.

Gould Takes Wilton, 19-0

Behind the brilliant running of Symons, who scored all the touchdowns of the afternoon, Gould Academy defeated Wilton Academy by a 19-0 score, on Alumni Field Monday afternoon. The visitors put up a strong offense as they ran up 12 first downs but penalties and fumbles hurt them considerably. A penalty nullified a touchdown and, once in the third period they were on Gould's 1 yard line and were thrown back to the 28 before they lost the ball.

In the first period Symons and Burnham ripped off 30 and 31 yard runs to set up the first T. D. which Symons scored from the two yard line. In the second period Symons scampered 22 yards to score. It was in the third play of the last quarter that he really showed his heels as he started off his left end, cut to his right, and raced 58 yards for the final counter. Burnham and Johnson both played well on the offense. Captain Adams starred on the defense. For Wilton Belsaw was outstanding as he ripped off many long gains and ran back punts deep into Gould territory.

Outlaw the Communists?

Louis Budenz, the internationally known former editor of the Communist DAILY WORKER, advocates outlawing Communism in America. He says this drastic action is necessary to cope with the growing power of the Red Fifth Column in our country. His opinion in this field was the subject of consideration for the House Committee on Un-American Activities. His strategy probably better than any other non-Communist in America. Since breaking with the Red conspiracy he has been the most powerful voice for our government in pointing out the danger of Communist infiltration.

In a speech to the recent Harding College Freedom Forum, Mr. Budenz said that this plan of outlawing Communism is not only a patriotic duty but also a necessary step to protect the rights of the majority. He said that the Red conspiracy is a real and present danger to our country. He said that the Red Fifth Column is a real and present danger to our country. He said that the Red Fifth Column is a real and present danger to our country.

Like A Tree

The words of John to the faithful are: "Be like a tree, whose root is planted in the rock, and whose branches are spread abroad, and whose fruit is for the hungry." This is a beautiful metaphor for the Christian life. It is a life of stability and fruitfulness. It is a life of service to others. It is a life of love and peace.

"HOW TO WIN FRIENDS and INFLUENCE PEOPLE"

Appeasing an Irate Customer

JULIAN DETMER, founder of the Detmer woolen goods, which later became the largest distributor in the world for woolen goods to the tailoring trade, doesn't believe any man can be right every time. He once told me of an instance in the handling of an irate customer that can benefit anyone with something to sell. (And who hasn't something to sell, if it be but one's personality?)

The customer had long been owing the Detmer Woolen Company, and the company's credit department had been after him. One day the man burst into Mr. Detmer's office saying that not only would he never pay that bill but that the company had received its last order from him.

This man had been a fairly good customer over a period of years and naturally Mr. Detmer didn't want to lose him. But what was more important, he didn't want to lose the good will of a former customer.

So he decided to listen patiently to all this man had to say, although he didn't believe the man to be in the right. When the angry man got his story off his chest, he calmed down. Then Mr. Detmer took over.

"I want to thank you," he said, "for explaining the situation to me. A lot of men wouldn't have bothered to do that. I am glad to know how our credit men have irritated a customer, for they have done that to you. They are doing it to others, and you can appreciate how much it means to me to know about such a situation. Believe me, I am more eager to hear about this matter than you have been to tell it. Because of your time and trouble in coming here, I prefer to wipe this bill off our ledger. The information you have given me is worth more to us than the amount involved."

The result?
1—The man went home and sent a check for the amount due a letter of apology accompanying it.
2—When his little son was born he was named Detmer.
3—He remained a customer of the house for more than 25 years—until his death.

THIS WEEK IN Washington

DESPITE the small number of laws passed and the preoccupation of the 76th Congress for probes and investigations, this first session of the Congress cannot be called "do-nothing."

In spite of the numerous hours wasted in probing into almost every nook and cranny of the land and into almost every avenue of government activity, the overall accomplishment of this first session of the 76th Congress seems rather large viewed from the angle of world importance and national security.

The session started slowly, but fast at all times under clouds of threatened war, and its appropriation of money from the American taxpayers, including approximately $7 billion dollars for military, pushed the $5 billion dollar mark. Taxes were boosted some 11 percent to help meet the military cost of national security, and, from the first day, the Congress was ruled by a strong southern group which from time to time formed air-tight conditions with Republicans, and with any other division necessary to control key legislation.

Between probes, which numbered approximately 150, the Congress passed about 115 major bills. Here are some of the major legislative acts: Military appropriation bill of $7 billion; military construction bill of $1.1 billion; foreign aid bill for $7.3 billion; other federal spending, to $10 billion; $1.1 billion; reauthorized trade agreement, which included the controversial tariff amendment introduced by the Republicans in the 76th Congress, for the aid to India; approval of troops to Europe; increase of capital for the export import bank; extension of the defense production act; watered down; military training, the tax bill to raise $2.2 billion; defense housing act; food relief, navy ship construction act; merchant marine construction; Mexican labor import agreement; extension of the sugar controls act; hospital benefits for Korean veterans; free oil life insurance; railroad retirement pensions; postal rate increases; disabled veterans.

Outstanding probe of the year was the Kefauver investigation of crime throughout the country, and, while several bills were introduced subsequently to place curbs on crime and gambling, none of them were passed through the Congress. As a matter of fact, the controversial tax bill which was defeated, and then passed in an about face by the House, contains at least a recognition of the bill imposing a 10 percent tax on wagers placed with book makers or lottery operators.

pension increases; care for veterans (voted); ending war with Germany; peanut acreage allotment and pay hikes for government employees.

The appointment of General Mark Clark as ambassador to the Vatican will run over at a major controversy into the next session of this Congress, as will the reappointment of Philip Jessup as U.S. representative to the United Nations after Congress had failed to confirm his appointment during the regular session.

Announcement of Senator Taft's resignation; resignation of William H. Clegg, Jr., as Democratic national chairman, and refusal of George G. Whelan, Republican chairman to resign, were top political highlights of the session, plus the abortive attempt of Senator Karl Mundt, South Dakota, for a coalition of Republicans and southern Democrats at the party level.

Probably the emotional highlight of this Congress was the "Old Soldiers Never Die" speech of General Douglas MacArthur before a joint session of the Congress, after he was fired from supreme command by President Truman as insubordination charges. And the highlight of the lobbyists in this Congress was the National Meat Institute and the Texas beefed and spurred "cowboys" who strutted through the Capitol corridors in an effort to defeat the meat curbs in the defense production act.

HEARTBREAK RIDGE

Economic Highlights

Happenings That Affect the Future of Every Individual — National and International Problems Inseparable From Local Welfare.

There has been so much big news this year that one fact of great political and economic importance has been obscured. The fact is that the session of Congress which just ended gave President Truman's all-encompassing social welfare program the complete deep-freeze treatment.

The roster of failure in this regard was complete. The compulsory health insurance proposal wasn't even given hearings in House or Senate. Nor was the equal rights measure, or the Federal Fair Employment Practices Law. Nor was the Brannan Plan for production payments to farmers. A bill providing Federal aid to medical education did come to a vote in the Senate, and was decisively defeated. The House ignored this theme completely.

As The Portland Oregonian said editorially, "No President has asked more social welfare legislation of Congress than has Harry Truman. No President has been more ineffectual in the achievement of a social welfare program."

Mr. Truman didn't get his way in many other matters either. The new tax bill, for example, will produce only about half as much additional revenue as the President asked of Congress—even though it will bring the tax burden to an all-time high save for the peak reached during the last major war.

Mr. Truman cannot blame these setbacks which obviously rattled him hard — on the Republicans alone. The Democrats have small majorities in both branches of Congress. But a great many Democrats are as opposed to the President's program as the Republicans.

There is no control—and, along with this, to attempt to block Congressional efforts to correct this inequality. At best, retelling's margin of profit is very small—it averages substantially less than five cents out of each dollar taken in through sales. Under these conditions, it is manifestly impossible for the retailer to absorb any substantial part of rising costs for any prolonged period of time. The margin simply does not exist.

American retailing can look to its record with pride and confidence. So can the American consumer—who stands to lose the most when retailing is disrupted by senseless laws and rulings.

GRASS ROOTS OPINION

East Rochester, N. Y. Herald:—Did anyone ever ask how to increase their take home pay the quickest and easiest? Did anyone ever think that by cutting down on the great masses of rats which are gnawing away at the paychecks of everyman, he could get an immediate lift in that take home pay? It's just like a bar of soap. As long as the rats continue to carry it away, you have to work that much harder to raise more to take up the losses. These Federal rats have waxed fat over the years, and they have grown more and more defiant of the public by the protection which the government has given them. They have reached a point of an army of rats which not only will not be dislodged, but demand more and more of the public's money.

was engineered in large part by Republicans, such as John Foster Dulles and the late Senator Vandenberg. There is much difference of opinion over details both between the parties and within the parties. But there is overwhelming agreement on the broad general principles.

One development, in the view of many, is likely to overshadow all other domestic issues during the next campaign—corruption and irregularities in the government. Even such burning issues as taxation and government spending can conceivably be subordinated to it. In the past, nothing, save war, has so inflamed the hearts and minds of the American people as scandals in high places and graft in the governments' bureaus. The disclosures that have so far been made are, it is believed, merely foreshadowings of even more shocking revelations. That is the kind of thing which has roundly beaten candidates and parties before.

Only one big matter did the President get his way almost totally. That was rearmament and the related European aid program. And that program is bipartisan, and it parties before.

TAXES COST MORE THAN FOOD!

According to the president of the Grocery Manufacturers of America, the American consumer now pays more in taxes than he pays for his food! In 1940, the nation spent $17,100,000,000 for food and paid $12,700,000,000 in taxes. Last year, by contrast, the food bill was $32,500,000,000 and the tax bill was $37,000,000,000.

This does not take into account the increases in taxes that have occurred during the current year, nor the additional increases which are in prospect.

Here is more proof of the fact that the tax bill is the biggest item of expense the American people face. Some of our taxes we pay directly in income, inheritance, and similar levies. Others still are hidden in the cost of every service and article we buy. All told, taxes now consume close to a third of the national income.

Taxation on this level destroys incentive. It dries up "risk capital"—why should a man take a chance on a venture when he must pay the whole cost if he loses but will gain little or no profit if he succeeds? It makes it abnormally difficult and in many cases impossible for the small business to grow the money that would be used for expansion goes, instead, to the government. It discourages production and progress.

There is but one solution: significant economy in governmental government spending, all the way from the village to Washington. At best, taxation must be heavy. If the present trend continues, it will prove ruinous.

CIVIL DEFENSE

PUBLIC SAFETY

This is the second in a series of articles designed to show your part in the Maine Civil Defense and Public Safety program. Read these articles carefully: your life may depend upon it!

When the "Maine Civil Defense and Public Safety Act of 1949" passed the State Legislature, Governor Frederick G. Payne chose Brig. General Spaulding Blabie, a veteran of more than 32 years of service in the Maine National Guard and the Armed Forces of the United States, to become Maine's first Civil Defense and Public Safety Director.

General Blabie carefully selected a state staff of volunteer experts in various categories of human endeavor, and together they drafted plans and programs which eventually would affect the lives and property of every citizen of Maine.

Each one of Maine's 16 counties is headed by a Civil Defense Director who, in turn, is supported by a staff responsible for the important CD functions in that county.

On a lower—but perhaps the most important level—Local CD Directors supervise activities in the hundreds of cities, towns and villages of our state.

This is where you—Mr. and Mrs. Maine—come in. The civil defense program in your community is only as strong as the people in the community, only as effective as you can make it with your training and skills.

Civil Defense is not a job for "others," not a job for a chosen few. Civil Defense is Everybody's Business! Civil Defense is your job for there is a part for everyone to play.

Next week in this column, we will try to show you—by means of a series of questions and answers—HOW you should actively participate in your local CD program, and HOW you can help yourself, your family, your neighbors.

THE AMERICAN WAY

Baseball Steel

by George
Peck

(EDITOR'S NOTE: George Peck is Chairman of the Board of the Labor - Management Foundation and Executive Editor of its official publication, PARTNERS.)

The World Series has been played and another baseball season is ended. I hope your favorite team won. But win or lose, the curtain has been rung down on the baseball drama of 1951. Seven non-pennant winners in each of the two major leagues, disappointed but not discouraged, have made the traditional post-season pronouncement: "Just wait till next year!"

But did you know that the Steel Manufacturing Industry was an important factor in every baseball game played this past season? It was, and Arthur Bartlett tells why and how in an interesting story which appeared in the September issue of STEELWAYS.

This article recounts how back in the 1860's some baseballs were so dead they couldn't be hit out of the infield, while others soared like an eagle and could turn an attempted bunt into a two-base hit. Not only that they came apart. The legend is that once in the old days it took all three outfielders to make one put-out. One caught the cover, the second wound up with the yard while it was still in mid-air, and the third caught the melted rubber.

The STEELWAYS article tells how A. G. Spaulding, a pitcher himself, started putting out the first modern baseball in 1858. They had a hard rubber core to give them bounce, they were wound tightly to keep them from being too lively, and the whole thing had a sturdy, strongly attached cover. The National League men in those days adapted them right away.

Today the American League also uses Spaulding baseballs, made under a subsidiary trademark. A J. Spaulding & Sons baseball is a trademarked name.

Only one operation is hand-performed on baseballs and that is stitching up the covers. But even that is a job to tradition. Machines have been developed which will do a straight cross-stitch on baseballs, but not the breakbone stitch which has always been used. Baseball men are sticklers for tradition.

But even the hand stitching has been simplified and rendered fool-proof because of a remarkable steel die developed a few years ago. This die not only cuts the breakbone into perfect figure eights two for each ball but punches all the needle holes so exactly that they line up perfectly. This has reduced the length of time it takes the average girl to become expert at stitching covers from three years to six months and it assures that every cover will be stitched to the exact pattern of the other.

So we see that the Steel Industry which provides so many things for our national welfare and which is so vital to our defense program, makes still another contribution to "The American Way." It provides the stitching machine to making uniform the balls used in baseball, our great National game, which brings so much healthful, competitive exercise to the younger of us and so much stimulating relaxation to so many of us citizens.

Traffic Jam
An old fellow was crossing a busy intersection when a large St. Bernard ran past him and bowled him over. The old instant an Austin car skidded around a corner in sliding more serious trouble.

A bystander helped him to his feet and someone asked him if the dog had hurt him much.

"Well, not exactly," was the reply. "but that dog tried to hit tail constantly did the damage."

COOLIDGE SET A FINE PRECEDENT

Recent disclosures of shocking irregularities in high places in the government have turned the minds of millions of Americans back to the scandals of the Harding Administration. President Coolidge came to the White House shortly after these crimes began to be exposed. He ordered a sweeping investigation, regardless of whom it touched or where it might lead. He lent his full weight behind this all the way, even though some of the men involved had been prominent in his own party.

The country now has a right to ask: Will similar action be taken in the present case? Or will a few of the lesser cranks be thrown to the wolves, and the remainder covered up?

The current scandals have gone deeply in government bodies which should be conducted on the highest conceivable plane of honor, decency and ethics—notably the Internal Revenue and the Reconstruction Finance Corporation. They have run all the way from clearly illegal acts to the use of "influence" and "connections" which are reminiscent of the most flagrant Tammany ward-healing. To put it bluntly, the whole mess stinks to high heaven.

President Truman can perform one of the greatest services of his career if, as President Coolidge did before him, he orders that the current scandals be completely investigated and completely made public and makes that order stick.

GRASS ROOTS OPINION

Newberry, S. C., Observer: "Statistics bear out the fact that we Americans have boosted our total annual income considerable from the year 1929. In fact the actual figures show that in 1929 the total annual income was about $87 billion, but last year a total of $239 billion, or a 175% increase was grossed by wage earners of this nation. But back of it all is the fact that the government has been doing some increasing on its own account. Factually, it has increased appropriations from $4.7 billion to more than $52.8 billion, and it has run up the national gross debt from less than $17 billion to more than $257 billion."

Gather the Wheat

IN THE parable of a sower and his wheat field, Christ Jesus told his listeners that good seed was sown, but tares also appeared. When his servants inquired why this should be, the householder replied (Matthew 13:28) "An enemy hath done this." In his subsequent explanation of the parable to his disciples, Jesus identified the source of the tares as evil, or the devil.

The parable indicates the difference between the wheat of ideas and the tares of material-mindedness. Mary Baker Eddy, the Discoverer and Founder of Christian Science, writes in "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" (p. 72), "Moral belief (the material sense of life) and the immortal Truth (the spiritual sense) are the tares and the wheat, which are not united by progress, but separated."

On another occasion Jesus said (John 4:35), "Say not ye, There are yet four months, and then cometh harvest? behold, I say unto you, Lift up your eyes, and look on the fields; for they are white already to harvest." To differentiate quickly between the unreality of the temporal and the reality of the eternal is to "lift up" one's eyes. Spiritual ideas, expressing the immortal and perfect, are to be garnered, while material beliefs, producing fear and inharmonious, are to be destroyed.

God is ever-present Spirit, creative Mind, Infinite Love. In the measure that one apprehends divine omnipotence, omnipresence, and omniscience, he gains the true idea of Deity and discerns the reality of God's creation including man as God's reflection. . . . Because God, the only cause and creator, is good, His creation, including man, is likewise good. In this scientific, logical reasoning man is understood as the spiritual, perfect, and immortal idea of Mind, not a penalized mortal influenced by sin, steeped in disorder, and subject to death. Belief in the reality of matter and the so-called laws of life, age, disease, pain, and disaster sows the tares of fear. God, good, does not originate or ordain the errors of material belief; therefore they have no reality, no power, no existence.

. . . We can discern matter's unreality and through our acknowledgment of Spirit's reality and aliveness receive a fuller experience of health, happiness, and success. Paul exhorts (II Timothy 2:15), "Study to show thyself approved unto God, a workman that needeth not to be ashamed, rightly dividing the word of truth." - The Christian Science Monitor.

Lesson: Exodus 3: 1-7, 10, 12-15
Memory Selection: Exodus 3: 15

AFTER MOSES had slain the Egyptian, who had been beating an Israelite, and was forced to flee to the land of Midian, he there found a refuge and a home with the priest of the section, and he married a daughter of the priest. While tending the flock of his father-in-law, on the back side of the desert, he was attracted by a burning bush which burned hotly but was not consumed.

Turning aside to see why the bush burned but was not consumed, Moses heard the voice of God, speaking to him out of the midst of the flame. And God commissioned Moses to undertake the delivery of the Israelites from Egyptian bondage.

When Moses inquired who was sending him into Egypt, the Lord bade him to say that the great I AM was sending him. He bade him also to say that I AM was the God of Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob. Thus did God reveal himself as the Almighty Being who has neither length of years nor end of days, the ever-living, eternal God.

In the ancient time the names of persons were supposed to tell something of their character. So the name of God, I AM, indicates that God is eternally existent, that his being is absolute and changeless. And we at once feel his transcendence over time and space and all the limitations of finite beings. Surely we can trust the self-revealed God, even as Moses did several thousand years ago.

LOCKE MILLS

Mrs. June Swan, Corres.

An 81 year old resident of Bird Hill, Charles Jordan, believes that he established a world's record in gardening this past season. Last spring a friend gave him NINE Kennebec seed potatoes. He cut them into 66 pieces, planted them and let them grow. When harvested this fall, they yielded three and one-half bushels. Can anyone top this?

Mr. and Mrs. George Flanders spent the week end with Mr. and Mrs. Hiram Libby and Mrs. Kenneth Drown at Oakland.

At this writing 21 deer have been tagged at Cummings Base Station.

Some of the local hunters to have tagged deer are Ada Cummings, Albert Swan, Lester Tebbets, Bill Cole, Everett Cross, Sam Allen and Walter Newell.

Mr. and Mrs. James Ring and Mrs. Mabel Farrington were entertained Sunday by Mr. and Mrs. Sam Allen at Berlin, N. H., in honor of Ruth Allen's first birthday.

Mrs. Theresa Martin and Mrs. Constance Blanchard were hostesses at a fashion show at the town hall Tuesday night. Ada Cummings was the demonstrator. Those attending were Carol Jordan, Gail Scribner, Anita Packard, Tura Martin, Edna Morse, Anne Kimball, Jeanette Kimball, Margaret Merrill, Jeanette Bowers, Myra Jordan, Helena Bartlett, Anne Troy, Esther Leach, Josephine Bartlett, and June Swan.

Robert Lade of Middlebury, Conn., is visiting with Myra Jordan and son, David.

Beverly Lombard was taken to the Rumford Community Hospital Tuesday night for an appendicitis operation.

NEW LAW ALLOWS BENEFITS FOR DISABILITIES AFTER JUNE 1950

Under a new law, ex-servicemen disabled in military service anywhere in the world after fighting started in Korea are eligible for vocational training on the same basis as World War II veterans, according to an announcement by Malcolm L. Stoddard, manager of the Veterans Administration Center at Togus.

Manager Stoddard said that previously, rehabilitation training was limited to Korean veterans who needed it and whose service-connected disabilities had resulted from armed conflict or extra-hazardous service outside of combat.

This limitation, in effect, barred hundreds of veterans — disabled while serving in the United States or in non-combat zones elsewhere — from the federally sponsored training program. Those entitled, in the past, were mainly injured or disabled in Korea itself.

The new law, known as Public Law 170, 82nd Congress, lifts the bar by eliminating the "armed conflict" and "extra-hazardous" requirements.

Under the law, training may be extended to these veterans disabled in any part of the world after June 27, 1950, who meet essentially the same requirements as their fellow-veterans of World War II: a discharge under conditions other than dishonorable, a compensable service-connected disability and a need for training to overcome the handicap of the disability.

Veterans who have been notified that they are awarded compensation, or retirement pay, for service-connected disability may obtain details by contacting any VA office or writing to the VA Center, Togus, Maine.

To the Honorable Board of County Commissioners within and to the County of Oxford:

Respectfully Represents Arthur C. Barber of Bethel, in the County of Oxford and State of Maine, that he is the owner of land in said Town of Bethel, over and across which a highway has been located by the Selectmen for said Town of Bethel, according to a return filed by them with the Town Clerk of said Bethel on August 2, 1951, a copy of which return is herewith attached and marked "Exhibit A," that said location was accepted by the voters of the Town of Bethel at a special town meeting held for that purpose on August 11, 1951, that your petitioner is aggrieved by the acts of the Municipal Officers in their location of said way and also as to the damages awarded to him in their reports for property taken in laying out said location.

Wherefore your petitioner appeals to the Honorable Board of County Commissioners and prays that after due notice and hearing on the part of the Board, they may grant him relief from said location and award him such damages as in their judgment they deem proper. EASY DOES IT

YOU CAN EASILY make a good supper out of canned baked beans if you flavor them with brown sugar and catsup and place in a casserole. Top with tomato slices, sprinkle with grated American cheese and top with strips of bacon. Cook until heated through and cheese is melted and bacon crisp.

Canadian bacon, bought by the piece rather than the slice is less expensive and makes a good supper when baked. Serve with potatoes in cream.

Add a few sliced apples to your plain bread stuffing to use on a pork shoulder roast. Into the oven to go with it: scalloped potatoes with a few thin slices of onion among the potatoes.

For breakfast or supper make some French toast and then serve with a thin slice of cooked ham and mound of applesauce.

RECIPE OF THE WEEK

Spaghetti Casserole
(Serves 6-8)
2 cups cooked spaghetti
2 cups soft bread crumbs
2 cups milk
2 cups grated cheese
1/2 cup shortening
1/2 teaspoon salt
Dash of red pepper
2 eggs, beaten
4 tablespoons pimiento, chopped
1 can condensed tomato soup
Combine all ingredients except tomato soup. Place in a greased 3-quart casserole. Bake for 45 minutes in a moderately hot (375° F.) oven. Pour soup over spaghetti mixture and bake for 15 minutes longer.

Beef cups are attractive to serve with fish, and delicious, too, when they're scooped out and filled with tartar sauce for the fish.

Hamburgers will do for company practically when they're wrapped in a slice of bacon. After turning, top with a slice of cheese and broil until bubbly. Occasionally you can use tomato or a slice of onion to replace cheese.

Men like liver sausage sandwiches, especially when you do this. To 1/2 cup mashed liver sausage add 2 tablespoons minced onion, 1 egg chopped celery and 3 tablespoons mayonnaise. Blend thoroughly.

THIS IS NATIONAL 4-H CLUB ACHIEVEMENT WEEK

This week November 3 to 11, is being observed as National 4-H Club Achievement Week. Kenneth C. Lovejoy, state 4-H club leader for the Extension Service, has praised the work of 4-H club members in Maine during the past year. Part of the credit for their outstanding 4-H work must go to their local leaders and parents, he said. He pointed out that Maine 4-H club members are a part of the largest rural youth organization in the world with 2,000,000 members in some 67,000 clubs in the United States, Alaska, Hawaii, and Puerto Rico.

You—and the SCRAP METAL EMERGENCY

ANSWERS every farmer should have to questions about scrap iron and steel

Q. Why is iron and steel scrap a matter of importance to farmers?

A. Steel for our Country's defense program and civilian economy is being produced at the highest annual rate ever . . . and this will be greatly increased in 1952. Farm machinery and equipment needs must come from the ever-all supply. As steel production increases the need for scrap increases.

Q. How does scrap figure in the production of steel?

A. One pound of scrap is needed to make two pounds of steel.

Q. Is scrap getting scarcer?

A. Yes, the supply of scrap at the steel mills and foundries is not increasing fast enough to meet the needs of expanding steel production. Yet, there are millions of tons of old iron and steel scrap in small amounts on farms throughout the country.

Q. What if the needed scrap isn't obtained?

A. That will mean a serious loss of steel production . . . fewer products will be made of steel. It will mean more shortages of civilian products. Defense needs come first.

Q. Why not use pig iron instead of scrap?

A. Every ton of scrap conserves up-proximately 2 tons of iron ore, 1 ton of coal, nearly 1/2 ton of limestone and many other vital natural resources—to say nothing of transportation facilities. Besides, there are not enough blast furnaces to produce the iron needed to maintain production.

Q. How can more scrap be furnished?

A. By everybody pitching in—as we always do in every emergency—and searching out all possible sources of scrap. Manufacturers of all kinds of products are collecting scrap drives. Old ships are being salvaged . . . scrap is being obtained from countless sources including farms.

Q. What is farm scrap?

A. It is any worn out, obsolete, unworkable equipment, tools or other objects made of metal. It may be rotting and rusting in fence corners, in the fields, the barnyard or the tool shed.

Q. What should be done with farm scrap?

A. See that every bit of scrap gets to the scrap dealer located nearest to you. He will break it up into sizes used by the steel mills and foundries. He'll classify the metals then ship the scrap in carload lots. If you do not know the name of your local scrap dealer, consult your local implement dealer for this information.

Q. What else can I do about farm scrap?

A. Support the scrap drive organized in your locality. Work with your local Scrap Mobilization Committee in getting the scrap started back to the steel mills and foundries through the local scrap dealer.

You'll be helping your country—and yourself!

BIRD NOTES

Small flocks of Canadian Pine Grosbeaks have made an early appearance here.

One male Grosbeak was rescued from a cat on Mason Street by Richard, Susan and Stephen Saunders. He was injured slightly but eats high bush cranberries and lettuce and is getting well in a roomy cage.

The headless body of a small bird, impaled on a sharp twig, is being displayed to other Boy Scouts by Dennis Robertson. It is evidently a victim of a great Northern Shrike.

Between the dark and the daylight When the dusk is beginning to lower,
Comes a pause in the day's occupation
That is known as the children's hour.

Then the highways are crowded with youngsters. As they wend their way homeward from school. Sure, they're heedless. Weren't you? Then drive slowly. You're older. Make caution your rule.

U. S. Must Build Civil Defense

AIR FORCE CHIEF SAYS ENEMY BOMBERS CAN ATTACK AMERICA

(This is the first of a series of articles on civil defense, based on the booklet "This Is Civil Defense" prepared by the Federal Civil Defense Administration. It may be obtained from the Superintendent of Documents, Government Printing Office, Washington, D. C., for ten cents.)

By MILLARD CALDWELL, Federal Civil Defense Administrator

General Hoyt Vandenberg, Chief of Staff of the United States Air Force, has made a startling statement—one which most Americans find hard to believe. He has said that at best we could knock down only 30 out of every 100 enemy planes attacking the United States. That means that at least 7 out of 10 would get through. Despite our traditional attitude that "it can't happen here," we must believe these facts.

This does not mean that our Air Force is ineffective. We have an excellent air force and our anti-aircraft defenses are good. In the last war, the Germans also were well equipped with defense weapons, but they were not able to stop our attacking bombers. On the average, we lost fewer than 10 out of each 100 planes. That gives us something to think about!

We know that everything possible will be done to stop the enemy at our borders, and to prevent sabotage within, but we also can be sure that, in case of war, a good percentage of enemy attacks would be successful in spite of all that we could do. That is why we must have Civil Defense.

The wide oceans which once protected us have given way to global bombers. Today we face more kinds of attack than ever before, and our danger is much greater.

There is only one sure way to keep any enemy from knocking us out of a war. We must know how to save lives and property, restore our cities and industries, and carry on the fight no matter what kind of attacks are hurled against us.

Russia Has Bombers

Russia has hundreds of heavy, long-range bombers patterned after our B-29s which could get through most of our defense setups. We know that Russia has atomic bombs and that their heavy long-range bombers are capable of delivering them anywhere in the United States at any time the Kremlin dictates.

She can wage biological warfare

THE CRITICAL MATERIALS PROBLEM

Since World War II, the electric industry has had underway a construction program designed to meet all foreseeable growth of our power requirements and to provide an adequate reserve margin. With the outbreak of the Korean War, the program was at once stepped up to take care of expected defense needs. All in all, this huge expansion drive is unmatched in industrial history.

Now it is reported that there has been a marked slowing down of the program because of shortages of copper, steel, and steel alloys. But the increase in demand for power will take place as anticipated over the coming years.

Those who have charge of allocating the critical materials admittedly have a difficult problem on their hands. All manner of industries are asking for more to carry out their plans and operations but the supply just isn't big enough. The power industry's requests must be considered in the light of those of other essential enterprises. Yet it is certainly clear that if the power industry's expansion program is reduced to an appreciable extent, production in almost every field—including arms production—will falter. Everything possible must be done to give the power companies the materials they must have to build the facilities which are still in the blueprint stage.

Finally, critical materials problem should certainly cause Congress to turn thumbs down on socialistic, tax-consuming schemes to build government transmission lines which duplicates the existing lines of private utilities. These represent an indefensible waste of materials, money and manpower. And that's a luxury the nation cannot afford.

LOW DOWN FROM HICKORY GROVE

You know folks, when 2000 rioting, raucous students and youthful alumni pile out of one stadium after the game and start pushing over street cars, starting fires, and such, it is time to scratch the old dome and maybe deduct how come we pour so much dinero into a higher education. Our young folks could be taught ill-manners in a much less expensive procedure than via the big and costly university campus and stadium. They could be made equally uncouth for much less cash outlay.

Bear in mind, folks, I am talking now about the gang of 3000—not the other 10,000 at this same big university there in California where the demonstrators demonstrated their lawless behavior after the game. I am doing my dome scratching on how to weed out the 3000 with the bad manners—they are the blot on the escutcheon of the big school. To the other 10,000 who are there—and know why—I doff my skimmer to them. They will go places.

And to make a beginning, if we are bound and determined to try to cram Big School education into every youth—sometimes far beyond his capabilities—then, let the curriculum include good manners and how to be a good sport, during the one or two years he survives at the school.

Yours with the low-down,
JO SEIERA
